MORE FRESH AIR CHILDREN

Forty-three More Chicago Boys and Girls Arrived Yesterday and Were at Once Placed.

THIRTY MORE WILL COME ON MONDAY

Children Already Here Are Without Exception Enjoying Themselves Immensely —Picnic and Excursion for Them.

Yesterday afternoon forty-three more Chicago waifs arrived in the city in charge of the Superintendent of the Presbyterian mission and Fred Lawton, and were taken to the Christian church. As on the previous occasions there was another rush to get them, two women sometimes getting hold of one child and both wanting it.
In this dilemma the child usually cried. In the hurry a brother and sister who did not wish to be separated were placed in widely distant homes.

People who had driven a long distance to get one of the children were unable to do so. Thirty of the children brought yesterday were gathered in by the Presbyterian Mission in Chicago, which has an attendance of over three hundred of the poorer classes.

Up River Excursion.

There are ninety-eight Chicago children in Dixon and vicinity, and as Messrs. Espey, Emory and Kent have donated the use of their launches and steamboats an up-river excursion has been arranged for Saturday afternoon.
All persons having any of these charges are requested to bring them to the Kent landing on the south side of the river above the dam at 2 p. m. Saturday and be on hand to get them at the same place at 4 p. m. The children will enjoy a ride to Hazelwood and return, but will not leave the boat.

Picnic One Week From Saturday.

A committee of two ladies from each of the churches will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 10 a. m. Saturday to arrange for a picnic at the Assembly, one week from that date, for the enjoyment of all the little strangers. Every amusement possible will be provided and it is certain that a good time will be had by each little one.

Thirty More Monday.

Another lot of youngsters, about thirty in number, will be sent out next Monday to satisfy, if possible, the demand for them. They will arrive on the 3:45 p. m. train and will be taken to the Christian church in waggonettes. They will remain two weeks from that date. The same regulations will apply to the new lot, those desiring them leaving their names with any of the pastors.

Merchants Donate.

The merchants of the city have without solicitation given a number of the children, boys and girls, hats shoes and clothing which the little ones have been very thankful for. Of course private parties have done the same thing and their appearance has been greatly changed. Two little sisters have been taken into a suburban home where they have been entirely re-clothed and are now very pretty in their new dresses. These same girls electrified the family on their arrival by turning off their shoes and stockings, rushing out upon the close-kept lawn and turning summer-saunts on the soft grass. They are now quite demure and sedate, and very proud of their new clothes. As the eldest sister learned that she was to have a new dress she threw her arms around her benefactress' neck and burst into tears of joy.

Two boys in Palmyra who have never seen pigs except in the shape of chops, have nearly taken the life out of a drove because they "liked to see them run." It was necessary to forbid them to chase the porkers any more. Without exception, it can be stated that every Chicago boy or girl here is enjoying his or her two-weeks outing to the utmost, thanks to the kind-hearted people of Dixon and vicinity.

EDITOR OF THE TELEGRAPH:

Some of the Dixon people who are entertaining Chicago children may think by the clothes that they have and the stories they tell that they are being imposed upon. I wish to call attention to the following paragraph taken from the circular sent out by the Bureau of Charities:

"One cause of misunderstanding in a few instances in the past, has been the supposition, by some who opened their homes, that the children would all come from families in abject destitution, and would be so clothed, and would so conduct themselves as to indicate extreme poverty. Several facts help to explain this misunderstanding.
A few of them are as follows:

Late Telegrams

Regular Kentucky Mob.

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAPH:
OWENSBORO, Ky., July 17.—Joseph Anderson, who murdered his wife, was taken from the jail at this place by a mob and hanged. The sheriff, not expecting a mob, little resistance was made by the authorities.

Renominated Governor.

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAPH:
MADISON, Wis., July 17.—The Republican state convention in session here today nominated Robert M. La-Follette for Governor over John M.
Whitehead. The vote stood 790 to 266.

Bituminous Miners' Convention.

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAPH:
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 17.—The bituminous coal miners' national convention, assembled here to take into consideration the matter of assisting the anthracite strikers, met at ten o'clock. The sentiment among the delegation is adverse to a general strike; and the anti-strikers are gaining ground. There are nine hundred delegates present.

WERE MARRIED THIS AFTERNOON

Miss Esther Forsythe and Atty. W.
R. Willard take the Vows of Matrimony.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Forsythe homestead on East Boyd street, North Dixon, occurred the wedding of Miss Esther A. Forsythe, daughter of Rufus Forsythe, and Atty.
William R. Willard of Beaumont, Texas.

The ceremony was very unostentatious and only the members of the family and a few friends were present.
The service was performed by Rev.
Dr. Phillips of the Methodist church and the wedding march was played by Clarence E. Krimbill. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and the young people left on the 3:45 train for the West. Their future plans are not definitely announced.

The bride is a Dixon young lady of the most admirable qualities of character, modest in bearing and lovable in every way whose many friends have come to her unsought, drawn by her attractive manner and retained by the true spirit of friendship and helpfulness she has shown toward all. The groom formerly resided in Dixon and is a graduate of the Dixon College of Law and for the past twelve years has been practicing his profession in the West and South. He is a brother of Mrs. Joseph Halstead and Mrs. Anna Crawford of this city, and is a young man of excellent character, well read in his profession and with good prospects. The hearty congratulations of the community go with them.

CATCHES A MURDERER.

Northwestern Brakeman Bags a Man Who Shot His Friend.

Northwestern Brakeman R. T.
Smith of the Wisconsin division captured one of the cramps who shot Conductor Young near Rhinelander.
Smith stationed himself at the mouth of a cut and stood guard nearly all night. Finally he was rewarded by seeing a man leave a patch of woods and come toward him along the track.
He covered him with a gun and ordered him to throw up his hands. The man threw up his left hand and said his right arm was helpless. It was found that the arm had been shattered by two bullets and as the tramp had lain in the woods with his wounds unattended the arm will have to be amputated. If the shooting of the conductor can be proven against him he will probably hang.

Damage Done Telephone Lines.

Yesterday morning's storm did considerable damage to the telephone lines, a number of 'phones being burned out by lightning and several poles were washed out. Lou Pitcher of the Lee County line went to Amboy, Lee Center and Franklin Grove today to oversee repairing work. The pole washed out at the Northwestern bridge in this city caused considerable trouble by falling against the telegraph wires and these had to be cut and then spliced.

DOOM WAS LONG THREATENED

Rockford Man Lived Twelve Months in Hourly Expectancy of His Death.

EXPECTED BLOW FELL AT LAST.

Died While at Supper Table From Ruptured Artery Which Had Been Swelling for Months.

After living in danger of instant death for a year Albert Coulthrop of Rockford died Tuesday night as he sat at the supper table, says the Rockford Star.

A gush of blood from his mouth and nostrils, a gasp or two and life had passed from him in the way he had expected it at any moment for the preceding twelvemonth.

The case is one of peculiar pathos and unusual interest. The first warning of impending danger came to Mr.
Coulthrop over a year ago when an artery on the front of his chest over his heart commenced to enlarge, forming what is known in medicine as an aneurism. As this became larger week by week, the walls of the artery were stretched thinner and thinner, each change bringing nearer the moment when the enlargement must burst and cause instant death.

The agony of this period of waiting, watching and feeling the approach of sudden dissolution cannot be imagined.
Physicians were powerless to offer aid and the victim awaited his doom with full knowledge that he could not escape.

Tuesday night he sat down to his supper before 6 o'clock and partook of the usual meal. He raised a glass of water to his lips and essayed to drink, but death came soonest and he fell to the floor drowned by the flood of his life's blood into his lungs.

His wife was alone with him and help was summoned, but he was dead before any one could reach his side.

Decedent was 45 years of age May 16 and had lived in Rockford the past 16 years. He is survived by his wife and three sisters.

Decedent was a stone cutter and an expert workman, having been employed by all the stone dealers in Rockford at various times. It is thought that heavy lifting at his work was responsible for the enlargement of the artery that caused death.

A FINE PLEASURE BOAT.

Belonging to R. H. Espy and John Emory on Rock River.

R. H. Espy and John Emory have about completed a fine pleasure boat for use on Rock River above the dam.
It is now tied up on the north side of the river at the foot of Assembly Place. The boat is modeled on the lines of a Mississippi steamboat and its paddle-wheel placed at the stern, is propelled by a twelve horse power engine. Although the craft is nearly sixty feet long and about sixteen feet wide it is of very light draught and low water will not be much of a hindrance to it. Messrs.
Emory and Espy expect to use it in passenger trade during session of the Assembly and also for large or small excursion parties up the river.
C. Gonnerman, the furniture dealer, today received one hundred folding camp chairs which will tomorrow be placed in the boat. The boat is built very substantially and on its trial trip yesterday afternoon fully justified all the hopes of the builders.

Central Storing Coal at Amboy.

The I. C. R. R. is unloading many tons of coal in the yards at Amboy, in anticipation of a coal strike later in the season. There is one pile of coal in the yards about 600 feet long and from 15 to 40 feet wide, and from 8 to 15 feet high. There is another pile of coal about 19 feet wide and about 300 feet long. At present there are from thirty-five to forty carloads of coal in the yards yet to be unloaded.

Pay Day.

Yesterday was pay day at the Northwestern and today the Illinois Central employees received their salaries.

GIVE PRINCETON THE GO-BY.

Three Fast Burlington Trains No Longer Stop at Bureau's County Seat.

Three fast trains of the Burlington road no longer stop at Princeton, the county seat of Bureau county, and their failure to do so has caused a good deal of anxiety on the part of the people of Princeton. On this subject the Princeton Republican says:

One reason in the past why Princeton got so good train service was that a state law was in effect in Illinois compelling the stopping of all trains carrying passengers at the county seat towns. About two years ago a case was carried to the supreme court of the United States, where that court held it was not necessary for the Nickel Plate road to stop all passenger trains at an insignificant little county seat town in the southeastern part of the state and this decision applies with equal force to all other county seat towns in the state. From a legal point of view it is said railroad companies can no longer be compelled to stop all trains at county seat towns.

Two Northwestern trains, the ones going through here east bound at 7:05 a. m. and 1:42 p. m., do not stop at Morrison, because of the same ruling. The Morrison people are not at all pleased with the arrangement.

Odd Fellows Pass Resolutions.

HALL OF RUCKER LODGE, 495, I. O. O. F. WHEREAS: The silent messenger of death has invaded the portals of our lodge room and stricken from our midst brother Louis Stephan, who was a charter member of our lodge, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That while we humbly acknowledge the supreme authority of the Divine Father of all in removing our beloved brother from our midst, we recognize that our lodge has lost a worthy and devoted member whose highest ambition was to be a true Odd Fellow in his kind acts and loving deeds; that his family has lost a kind husband and father and the community an honest, upright man and a good citizen.

RESOLVED, That we tender to the bereaved family our tenderest sympathy in their loss and bereavement and present them a copy of these resolutions with the assurance that in the I. O. O. F. they can always rely upon finding true and loving friends.

No Farewell Dance.

The boys of Company G will not give a farewell dance tomorrow evening as they leave the city too early.

—Misses Georgia Steel, Be'se Morrison, Theo. Fuller and Geo. J. Downing visited with the campers at White Rock cottage last evening.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoon. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Coliseum Gardens.

Hot weather is daily sending more amusement seekers to the Coliseum Gardens at Chicago, where an attractive vaudeville bill can be seen and at the same time relief obtained from the sweltering weather that is visiting Chicago at frequent intervals. This same attractiveness prevails also during all kinds of weather, be it cold or rainy. As a consequence the new amusement place is reaping a harvest largely by reason of this protective roof.

The act which Marsh performs is certainly the most perilous and daring ever attempted by a bicycle rider. For him there has been built an inclined plane, starting from near the roof of the Coliseum at the top of the stage curtain, and running north for two-thirds of the length of the building ends there abruptly. Down this runway, Marsh dashes on his bicycle, and when the machine topples over the edge, he dives out into space, falling seventy feet away into a tank of water only three feet deep. He will remain at the Coliseum one more week. With him on the bill next week will be a number of attractive vaudeville performers. The Faust Sisters will present their graceful acrobatic dancing act, Bessie Gilbert the brilliant virtuoso, will play the cornet, fun will be furnished in fast and furious style by the Budd Brothers, and Raschetta Brothers, wonderfully clever barrel jumpers completes the strong array of performers in a dancing novelty.

The Race Question.

W. W. Wood of Chicago, discusses the race question in a communication to this paper which has many ingenious suggestions as to the best mode of separating the colored people from the whites; but his suggestions are too many, occupying too much space in the paper, for publication. Mr. Wood would pass laws confining colored people to certain portions of a city; prohibit emigration from one state to another. Laws that would be not only impracticable but cruel. The writer furnishes many facts which are interesting to people who enjoy tabulated statistics. Mr. Wood is a brother-in-law of the late Wm. B. Stevens, who was well known to our people.

—The Informant at the Dixon Club tonight is given in honor of visiting friends to club members now in camp at Woodruff cottage, White Rock, and the entertainment committee look for a good attendance. Come.

—Ogle County Reporter: A Grand Detour man made application for a license to marry a sixteen-year-old miss from that place last week, but he did not have the consent of the girl's parent or lawful guardian and the much desired permit could not be issued.

CAUTION

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing great popularity all these years you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds—perhaps; but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

Grandeurs of Peak and Chasm.

The natural attractions of Colorado are by no means confined to her mineral springs resorts, her splendid parks, nor to her beautiful mountain lakes. In whatever direction the traveler may choose by rail, if he go to the mountains, his journey is a succession of glory scenery, varying in the characteristics of placid beauty, grotesque ruggedness, and awe-inspiring grandeur. Up the canons, by heavy grades and difficult curves, are stupendous walls rising perpendicularly or gradually sloping back toward the greater hills, and yet again leaning forward above the chasm, as if threatening to come crumbling down, projecting great rocks that hang suspended over the train as it glides smoothly, it is a panorama of wonders and grandeurs such as belong only to the Rocky Mountains.

To enable persons to reach Colorado resorts, the Union Pacific has placed in effect during the summer months Very Low Rates.

STREETER JURY DISAGREES

Could Not Decide Whether the Captain Was a Romicide.

Chicago, July 17.—After being out thirty-four hours the jury in the Streeter murder trial was unable to reach an agreement and was discharged. William Force, one of the four defendants, was acquitted, but "Captain" Streeter and his companions McManners and Hoeltke will have to stand a second trial. Eight of the jurors believed Streeter and his two lieutenants guilty of murder, but the four other jurors held for acquittal.

The crime for which Streeter and his companions were tried was the shooting of Henry Kirk, a watchman. The tragedy was the outgrowth of a "squadron's rights" dispute as to a tract of valuable land on the lake front, and shooting was done on both sides.

WILL INVADE THE WORLD

Yankee Shoes To Be Sent to the Ends of the Earth.

New York, July 17.—One of the most remarkable campaigns in commercial history has been inaugurated by the board of trade of Lynn, Mass., says a dispatch to The Times. It has opened communication with all United States consuls and consular agents, and is securing from them detailed reports of the conditions of the shoe market and the possibilities for Yankee shoes in the respective localities.

Already hundreds of answers have been received, and the manufacturers are energetically preparing to invade every corner of the earth where shoes are sold. Each nation is being studied to find out its peculiar wants, and shoes are not only made to conform to these wants but packed and shipped in the manner desired by the consignee.

NEGRO BURNED ALIVE

Brutal Assault Brings the Regulation Southern Civilization on Top.

Clayton, Miss., July 17.—William Ody, a negro, who attempted to assault Miss Virginia Tucker, of this place, was burned at the stake last night. The assault was most brutal. The young lady was out riding in the country when attacked, and was so violently pulled from a buggy by the negro that both of her legs were broken. Miss Tucker is highly connected in this vicinity.

The negro was soon captured, and was held for a time in the possession of a posse. They were unable, however, to protect him, and he was taken from them, saturated with oil, tied to a tree and burned. The young woman's father is reported to have applied a match to the faggots piled around him.

A Palace by Piecemeal.

"I have bought a hut which I am transforming into a palace," said a woman. "You see, I had acquired a mania for buying the insides of fine old homes about to be torn down, and I had filled my city apartment with all that it would stand, besides putting a good deal in storage. Yet I kept on buying. One day I came across a well built but plainly furnished house on Staten Island which I could buy for a small price. At once I had visions of that house as it would look transformed by my fine old carved woods, marbles, tiles and mirrors. Mentally I did it up to such a degree of attractiveness that I just had to purchase it. The results are justifying my expectations. Every one who enters gives an exclamation of surprise and admiration, and I'm not through yet. The interior finish of my house cost originally tens of thousands of dollars and came from all parts of the globe. I got it for almost nothing."—New York Press.

DESIGNING A BUILDING

And What It Is to Cost to Represent Illinois at the St. Louis Fair.

SOME RUMORS OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Connected with the Western State Normal—Lively Elemental Outbreak Near Peoria.

Springfield, Ills., July 17.—The Illinois commission to the St. Louis exposition met here yesterday to discuss the buildings and displays to be provided at the exposition. The main building to be erected was the principle topic of discussion. Some of the commissioners want an Illinois building on a grand scale, to cost at least $125,000. The consensus opinion, however, was that $75,000 is enough to spend for this purpose, and that the money could best be used in making displays in keeping with the importance and standing of Illinois.

Design Is To Be Decided.

The design of the building will be decided upon today at a meeting of the building committee recently named. The building will be of wood and staff, 100 by 80 feet long, with a veranda twenty feet wide on each side. The architects will submit plans and the best one shall be awarded the prize. The board passed resolutions that until July 1, 1903, no salaries should be paid the superintendents of various departments or the assistant secretary, and that the salary of Secretary John Brown of Vandalia, be reduced from $3,000 to $2,000 for the coming year.

Illinois Historical Display.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Illinois Horticultural society to confer with the Illinois commission on the Louisiana Purchase exposition for the purpose of getting an appropriation with which to make a suitable display at the St. Louis exposition, met yesterday. It has been decided to ask for $25,000. The major portion of this, if granted, will be expended for paintings containing a history of the growth of the state, to be placed after the exposition in the proposed state historical library.

EXTRAVAGANCE IS RUMORED

In Connection with the Building of the Western Illinois Normal School.

Springfield, Ills., July 17.—Rumors of gross extravagance in connection with the building and other outlays of the new Western State Normal School are afloat here. It was supposed that the new structure would cost about $125,000. Thus far it has cost $300,000, though not even the first story is completed yet. It is said that the legislature will be asked for an immediate appropriation of $100,000 and that the edifice will cost not less than $500,000.

It is reported that the trustees have failed in their attempt to oust their registrar, J. G. Thompson, fearing it is alleged that he will make charges of extravagance. There is much dissatisfaction also with the plan of instruction announced by the superintendent, Dr. Henniger. It was supposed that the institution was to equip teachers for the public schools exclusively. Dr. Henniger's catalogue includes much more than the common branches of education.

Death of Major Stacy.

Springfield, Ills., July 17.—Major James D. Stacy, died here Monday night, aged 71 years. He was born in Jacksonville, Ills.; was a close personal friend of War Governor Yates, and aided him in placing troops in the field after the call was made for volunteers at the outbreak of the war. He went to the war as a lieutenant in the Sixth Illinois cavalry, and was promoted to be major. He resided in Jacksonville until 1873, when he removed to Springfield, and was engaged in the insurance business until his retirement.

Governor's Day at the Camp.

Springfield, Ills., July 17.—Governor's day at Camp Lincoln was observed by a visit of Governor Yates and staff yesterday afternoon. They were received with the governor's salute and escorted by a battalion. A review of the second brigade followed, after which Governor Yates and party were the guests of Gen. H. S. Clark, commander of the brigade. The visitors witnessed the evening parade.

Pays Sometimes To Be Kind.

Mount Vernon, Ills., July 17.—Mrs. Jacob Cox, of this city, has been left $142,000 by Charles Hill, who has just died in a Los Angeles hospital. Years ago the family of Mrs. Cox's husband befriended Hill when he was poor and friendless, and as he had no children, he has willed his whole fortune, which is in cash deposited in a Los Angeles bank, to Mrs. Cox.

Attempt to Burn a College Building.

Urbana, Ills., July 17.—An attempt was made to burn the new $100,000 chemical laboratory of the University of Illinois, but the blaze was discovered in time to prevent any serious damage. This is the second attempt to burn the building, and the eighth incendiary fire in the twin cities the last three months.

Terrific Wind Near Peoria.

Peoria, Ills., July 17.—A terrific wind and rain storm swept over the country north of Peoria yesterday. At Chillicothe the lightning did considerable damage. The steamer was blown ashore at Henry Island, but not seriously damaged. So far as is known no lives were lost.

Gossip from Society Leaders.

Danville, Ills., July 17.—Mrs. Frank Van Valkenberg has filed a sensational suit for damages against members of her husband's family, who, she alleges, have alienated her husband's affections and slandered her. She asks $25,000. All concerned in the suit are society leaders.

Dr. Harvey Milligan Dead.

Jacksonville, Ills., July 17.—Dr. Harvey Milligan died here yesterday, aged 82 years. He was professor of English literature in the faculty of Illinois college for twenty-five years and a prominent Mason.

"CRISIS IN METHODISM."

Zion's Herald is getting discouraged over Dr. Munhall, who seems to fancy, it says, that he is called to save the Methodist Episcopal church from the ravages of higher criticism. His latest outpouring is entitled, "A Crisis in Methodism." It was delivered before the Chicago preachers' meeting, June 16, and afterward published as a pamphlet. In our experience, remarks the Herald, the discoverers of crisis are seldom useful persons. They are excitable and hysterical and subject to nightmares, or they have special axes to grind. In his ignorant farrago Dr. Munhall begins by bewailing the falling away of the Methodist church from its ancient power and spirituality and finds the root of the apostasy in the higher criticism. Then follows an arraignment of pretty much all the leaders of the church. Profs. Mitchell and Terry come in, of course, for denunciation. Condon rebuke is bestowed upon President Little. Plantz, Raymond, Bashford, Bridgman and Warren, while Chancellor Day comes in for special animadversion. All these scholars have gone over to the enemy. In addition, several other professors and their works are dealt with. There is no crisis in Methodism, concludes the Herald. The crisis is in Munhallism. His crude evangelism, a caricature of the gospel, is no longer remunerative. Hence all these tears. The doctor, who is duly alive to his own financial interests, supposes that higher criticism is to blame, and thinks by these ignorant farragos and unprincipled slanders and libels to put off the evil day. But higher criticism has nothing to do with it. The passing of Munhallism is solely due to the growth and spread of intelligence. It cannot be prevented even by the study of Dr. Munhall's books and lectures, which are industriously advertised for sale by the author at very reasonable rates.

COMMENT.

The people of Texas are still praying for rain, and the rain comes in floods, but it falls in Illinois instead of Texas. They ought to quit praying for rain, or make some arrangement to have their prayers answered in Texas, and not in this State. Illinois has more rain than it wants.

W. J. Bryan, in an editorial against Cleveland, says "There can be no such thing as harmony between men like him and those who believe in Democratic principles." Cleveland has the same opinion of Bryan. Henry Waterson, of Kentucky, supports Bryan in his opinion of Cleveland. It is evident that there is no harmony in the Democratic party.

The farmers in Illinois, according to the figures of the census bureau, are worth two thousand millions of dollars. That is an immense sum of money, and it is widely distributed among the farmers of Illinois. Farming, in the long run, is the most certainly profitable business. No farmer, who manages his farm well, is likely to become either a millionaire or a bankrupt, but he is reasonably sure of a modest fortune.

Clams and Shirts.

The clams of the Mississippi river devote their lives to the creation of homes, which are later turned into shirt buttons. Thus the clamshell in the form of a button may still be on the outside of a clam. With the shirt, these buttons are turned over to the laundries, and like pins and needles nobody knows what becomes of them. When a clam desires to have a lasting monument, he builds a pearl. Recently, one was found at Calmar which sold for $1,700. To many, this sum represents a life's earnings. In fact many a man has lived his allotted time and accumulated much less. Of course, the clam which creates a valuable pearl, receives nothing for the creation. He is like a genius, he creates because he can't help it.

FULTON JOURNAL SPEAKS.

Tells of Dixon Man and Says There is Wide Disaffection in District.

In its last issue the Fulton Journal had the following to say in its report of the tri-county labor convention held in Dixon Saturday night:

"Fred R. Hanlon is a prominent citizen of Dixon identified with labor organizations, and a Democrat in politics. He was the choice of his party for the legislature four years ago in Lee county. As a business man he stands well and is popular with all classes, as an honorable, straight forward and public spirited citizen. He was the labor candidate for mayor of Dixon last spring and ran two hundred votes ahead of his ticket. Mr. Hanlon is a member of the board of supreme directors of the Court of Honor, and when elected carried seventy-five counties in Illinois as well as the states in California, Iowa, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

"There is wide spread disaffection throughout the district in the Democratic party over the nomination of C. C. Johnson of Sterling, and especially is this true of Lee and Whiteside counties. The Democrats of Lee county in the senatorial convention were ignored and practically disfranchised by the machine methods of Johnson of Whiteside and Branen of DeKalb. The labor men are in earnest and will make a complete canvass of the district and the prospect of winning out is very encouraging. Hundreds of Democrats in Whiteside would not vote for Mr. Johnson under any consideration, owing in part to his record in the legislature, voting and working for the passage of the infamous Allen bill and Warehouse bill legislation whose passage were secured by an immense corruption fund distributed to recreant members in blocks of ten to twenty thousand dollars."

In its editorial column the Journal further says:

"There is another candidate for minority representative in this district—Fred R. Hanlon of Dixon having been unanimously placed in nomination by the Union Labor convention held in Dixon Saturday evening. Mr. Hanlon is clean, capable and intelligent, and enthusiastic for the demands of workmen and the producing class of our people. The labor union are to be congratulated in the good judgment displayed in placing in nomination a worthy and representative man. Mr. Hanlon will be heard from in the coming campaign."

Strong Circumstantial Evidence.

The Clinton Age of Wednesday gives the circumstantial evidence which resulted in the arrest of H. A. Hodsdon of Lyndon for the robbery and attempted murder of Mrs. Stottemyer of Clinton, at whose house he was boarding. We gave an account of the arrest last evening. The Age makes quite a sensational story of the evidence, which in brief is as follows:

Hodsdon's room adjoins that of Mr. and Mrs. Stottemyer. Hodsdon had been at a lodge meeting and returned about midnight. The lady, whose husband was away from home, was awakened by seeing a man attempting to pry open a drawer of her dresser. On attempting to draw a revolver from under her pillow she made some noise and the man, who had a white handkerchief before his face and wore a storm coat, sprang to her and put a hatchet over her mouth. She supposed herself chloroformed and lost consciousness. When aroused the next morning, the gas in the room was found turned on. It was supposed the man turned this on intending to asphyxiate the lady and so cover his crime. Physicians discovered no traces of chloroform.

Hodsdon was first arrested some time ago on the charge of robbery—two watches and a small amount of change having been taken. He was released on bail and continued to lodge in the house when he went to Clinton. The second arrest was because it was thought he might jump his bail. However, he went with the sheriff without requisition papers and says he can prove his innocence. A light was seen in his room all night on the occasion of the robbery, which he explained by saying he could not sleep on account of bugs. No traces of bugs were found in the room. The burglar in general build resembled Hodsdon, and is said to have had a storm coat when he first took the room, but this he denies and there is none among his belongings. He has always borne an excellent character, though somewhat eccentric. He is said to have tried to compromise the matter on his first arrest; and later one of the watches and a job were found in his mattress. Yet there are many who think him innocent and the victim of untoward circumstances. It has been suggested that he may have committed the act in a fit of unconscious somnambulism. He has nothing in looks or actions of the appearance of a man who would be guilty of such a crime is charged; but though his past career is spotless, it may be difficult for him to extricate himself from the coils of circumstantial evidence which seem to surround him.

THE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY.

Illinois State Fair to Celebrate Fiftieth Year of Its Existence.

The premium list of the Illinois State Fair has been completed and it is now being distributed through the mails to all parts of the United States and Canada. The list represents cash premiums to the amount of $50,000 in addition to innumerable special prizes. The feature of the list this year is the increased premiums in the saddle horse and combination rings, made in deference to the increased interest in horse breeding in the state.

Already it is evident that the display of horses and cattle this year will be the largest in the history of the fair, for already the early demands for space exceed the area heretofore allotted to some of the classes.

The state board believes that it will celebrate its golden anniversary with the greatest exposition in the fifty years of its existence and the most complete state fair ever held in the United States. It congratulates itself on the fact that President Roosevelt will be present in his official capacity to lend his approval and encouragement to the exposition and that it will have for guests of honor the governors of all the neighboring states, who will attend with their staffs.

The visit of President Roosevelt is to be entirely non-partisan in its character and the reception to be given him will be of the same sort. The President in accepting the invitation said he desired to come to Springfield to enjoy the fair and mingle with the people and he was anxious that nothing savoring of politics intrude itself into the occasion. Democrats and Republicans alike will vie with each other in making his reception one befitting the President of the United States and substantive of Illinois' reputation for hospitality.

Superintendent Madden of the speed ring is making a special effort this year to get a good class of horses for the events on the track. A portion of the money appropriated for this purpose is held back for special events, it being designed to offer special purses to horses which develop remarkable speed during the summer racing season, for match races on the Illinois track.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Belvidere Man Has His Leg Punctured by Bolt But Survives.

During yesterday morning's storm, T. P. Paul of Belvidere started to turn some cattle into a field. Just as he took hold of the gate to open it there was a roar and crash and a bolt of lightning struck the ground some distance from him in the field.

A man employed on the place saw the dirt fly into the air, then a sheet of fire and almost at the same moment Mr. Paul staggered back and fell to the ground. A portion of the bolt of lightning had leaped from the earth to the wire fence, and running along the wires struck Paul felling him instantly.

The other ran to his assistance and helped the injured man to the house. He was not unconscious but his right side seemed to be paralyzed. A physician was summoned at once.

It was found that Paul's thigh was punctured on the inside of the leg, that the lightning seemed to have passed down through the flesh, coming out just above the knee where another hole appeared, the lower part of the leg was completely singed, and the foot had the appearance of having been punctured with a charge of buck shot fired from above the foot.

That Paul escaped death is one of the strange things about lightning. It is one of the most remarkable instances on record.

Jumped from Train.

An 18-year-old girl named Cooke, who was paroled six week ago from Milwaukee reform school and was arrested Monday in DeKalb, escaped from the Milwaukee officer who had her in charge by leaping from a train window at Waukegan late Monday night.

The train had started when the girl ran to a window and jumped out. When the train was stopped and the authorities notified she had disappeared and she is still at liberty.

The girl had gone to visit in southern Illinois and while there was guilty of misdeameanors, it is said. Word was sent to arrest her. She evaded the officers in several towns, but was arrested at DeKalb.

Visiting Old Comrades.

Robert H. Thompson, a member of Company C, 13th Ill., Veteran Volunteers, is here today calling upon friends he has not seen since shortly after the war. His home since the 60's has been at Ogdensburg, N. Y. He was a citizen of Ambury when the war broke out and enlisted there.

NOT A LOVE KNOT.

Embarrassing Experience of a Woman in a Street Car.

A handsomely dressed lady riding recently in a crowded Amsterdam avenue car was fortunate enough to have a seat, but when nearing her destination she noticed that the lacing of her shoe was unfastened. It was the work of a moment, but a very trying moment, to stoop down and knot it securely. When this was accomplished, her hat veil readjusted and her gloves once more carefully put on, it was time to signal the conductor. This she did and after two vain attempts to rise looked around indignantly to find the cause of her retarded movements. She came face to face with a very irate gentleman who had been sitting next to her.

"Madam, madam, where are you trying to take me?" he demanded.

"I—you?" she stammered.

"Yes. Look there!" He pointed to the floor, and in an instant she had grasped the situation. By mistake in groping she had found the lacing of his shoe, which she had taken for the other end of her own, and had fastened them so carefully together that it took the gentleman quite five minutes to effect a release, under the amused glances of the other occupants of the car, which had traveled twice that number of blocks before the lady was ready to give another signal.—New York Times.

1. Children are often selected from families who are self-supporting, but who live in harmful surroundings. While these families are too poor to pay the cost of sending their children away, they care for them as well as possible.

2. Usually a mother, however poor, has the very human desire to send her children away looking their best. It is common for mothers to make the greatest sacrifices to get their children ready, often working all the night before the children start, washing, mending, or making some little new garment. Many times clothing is borrowed from other members of the family, and not infrequently from neighbors. Good clothing is constantly being given also by charitable societies.

3. Children are inclined to boast when away from home, and those sent on "Summer Outings" are no exception. Many stories of what they have at home, and the good times they enjoyed, have no other basis than a desire to outshine their fellows or to conceal the pitiful facts of their wretched poverty. The utmost care is used in selecting the children for the outings, and our friends in the country may be sure they are not being imposed upon.

My attention had been called to a little girl who had been telling about her fine dresses, dolls and piano. On last Tuesday when I went to Chicago I determined to investigate for myself. I found the little girl's home in central Chicago. I will not attempt to describe the poverty that I saw there. I did not suppose that even in the great city of Chicago there could exist conditions like I saw in that place that was called a home. Near by was the home of another girl. I climbed the stairs to the attic on the fifth floor and found the same conditions. The good people of Dixon and vicinity little realize how much good they are doing for these children, and the two weeks spent in Dixon will be an oasis in their desert of life.

It may be of interest to the people of Dixon to know how these children are gathered together. The Chicago Bureau of Charities is the greatest organization of its kind in Chicago. The organizations have numerous stations all over Chicago with a large force of men and women working among the poor. When a party of children is to be sent out word is sent to one of these stations to get so many children together at a certain time and take them to the station where they are to depart for the country. It is expected that fifteen thousand children will be sent to the country this summer. FRED LAWTON.

The Biography of a Prairie Girl.

The Century Magazine is about to print a serial which will have an especial interest to people who are at home on the prairies. It is called "The Biography of a Prairie Girl," and the author is Eleanor Gates, a young woman who spent her childhood in Dakota and who thus writes from the closest personal observation.

The time of Miss Gates' story is about twenty-five years ago; it is put in the form of a personal narrative of the life of a little girl, and there is hardly a phase or event of prairie life which is not touched upon in these pages—the blizzard, breaking colts, horse stealing by Indians, school days on the frontier, fighting gophers and badgers, cattle raising and other typical phases of hardship or prosperity.

It is not a novel, but the same characters appear and reappear in the story with a reality which impresses the reader with confidence in the truth of the narrative.

"The Biography of a Prairie Girl" will begin in the August number of The Century and it will be illustrated.

Bought French Horses.

Ob. Champlain of Champlain Bros., importers, of Clinton, Iowa, writes from France that he has bought forty-eight fine Percheron, French coach and Belgian stallions, and will ship them soon for America, and Clinton, where they will be taught gee and haw in United States, and put on the market to cross with native stock, and get a little of the French style and shape to equines here.

Burglary at Polo.

The residence of F. B. Hammar, a groceryman at Polo, was entered Wednesday night and two watches and other articles taken. Another house was also entered. A description of two suspects and of the articles stolen were sent to Chief of Police Woodruff of this city.

One watch was a gold filled hunting case and the other an open face gold filled case. A pearl handled knife and some small change was also taken.

Witness Stand higher.

Harry L. Bennett, for Contractor W. J. McAlpine has raised the witness stand in the circuit court room at the court house fifteen inches higher. The wood used was birch with mahogany finish. The change was made necessary so that the witness could be better observed.

AN EASY VICTORY.

How an Obstinate English Lord Was Outwitted in Naples.

Lord Charles Hamilton used to go about Naples attended by a large, ferocious bulldog. Having decided upon going to Rome, he proceeded to the station and took his place in a first class carriage, the "dogg" taking up a position on a seat opposite his master. The platform inspector, with many gesticulations, declared that the bulldog should not travel in a passenger carriage.

"Very well, then; take him out," was Lord Charles' rejoinder.

In vain the official expostulated. He merely reiterated his former reply, a piece of advice it is needless to say which was not followed, and Lord Charles, apparently master of the situation, threw himself back in his seat and calmly lighted a cigar.

But the Italians were not to be outdone, and, quietly detaching the carriage in which the English "moll" was seated, they made up the train with another compartment and started it off.

Lord Charles sat quietly smoking for about a quarter of an hour and then, surprised at the delay, thrust his head out of the window and demanded when the train was going to start. His feelings when the station was described to him may be imagined.—London Tit-Bits.

Way They Do it in DeKalb.

They have a great brick layer over at DeKalb. The city is laying a large amount of brick pavement and one artist does all the work—reminding one of the Irishman who urged his brother to come to America, where all they had to do was to carry brick and mortar four stories up a ladder and there was a man up there that done all the work. A modest DeKalb citizen informs us that this man is a world beater at his specialty. He keeps two trains plying between Galesburg and DeKalb to supply the brick, ten teams hauling from the car and twenty-five men placing brick within his reach. Then he humps himself up in a leap frog attitude and waits for the whistle to blow. When business begins brick slide in place liked greased lightning. Once in ten minutes he stops to recharge his battery with Pabst's best. The city pays him $5 per day and when ten hours roll around he has laid two miles of brick road.

An Advertising Moral.

Once upon a time a donkey falling into a deep hole, and after nearly starving caught sight of a passing fox and implored the stranger to help him out.

"I am too small to aid you," said the fox, "but I will give you some advice. Only a few rods away is a big strong elephant. Call to him and he will get you out in a jiffy."

After the fox had gone the donkey thus reasoned: "I am very weak from want of nourishment. Every move I make is just so much additional allos of strength. If I raise my voice to call to the elephant I shall be weaker yet. No, I will not waste my substance that way. It is the duty of the elephant to come without calling."

So the donkey settled himself back and eventually starved to death.

Long afterward the fox, on passing the hole, saw within a whitened skeleton and remarked:

"If it be that the souls of animals are transmigrated into men, that donkey will become one of those merchants who can never afford to advertise."—Ex.

There is one happy boy in Clinton, Iowa, the little Dunn boy, who had his arm tore off by machinery a year or so ago. He is the son of William Dunn, and the other day was made happy to receive from President Roosevelt, a portrait of that gentleman, who had placed his autograph in one corner, the picture representing the President on one of his horses in Rough Rider costume. It is presumed Secretary Shaw, who is an uncle of the Dunn boy, had told the President of the lad's misfortune, he remembering him in consequence.

Ring Off.

The Chicago American must be hard up for something to print. For the third time they have printed the story of Robinson, the federal prisoner in the Lee county jail. Last night they accompanied the story with pictures of the prisoner and Deputy Sheriff Wohnke. The picture of Mr. Wohnke was nearly as true to life as the story.

SPOONER WITH AN IF

About How the Wisconsin Republican Convention Looks at The Matter.

SENATOR CAN HAVE THE SUPPORT

Provided He Will Stand on the State Platform—Salient Points of the Declaration.

Madison, Wis., July 17.—The Wisconsin Republican convention met here yesterday and organized with Judge L. H. Bancroft in the chair as temporary chairman. While transacting the preliminaries the issue before the convention—whether Spooner shall be endorsed for senator without requiring him to endorse the state platform—came up, and several resolutions were introduced referring to the dispute, one providing for unconditional endorsement of Spooner. All were sent to the resolutions committee. The men in favor of Spooner "regardless" are called "Stalwarts" in distinction from the LaFollette men, who were in a big majority in the convention. After the preliminaries the convention took recess to 4 p. m.

Resolution Committee Reports. But the resolutions committee had a difficult job on hand, and the convention did not reconvene until 9 p. m. Then the committee reported. The resolutions begin with an endorsement of the national administration and an expression of sorrow at the assassination of McKinley. Then the ticklish subject is dealt with. The plank on Spooner says that the public services of the Wisconsin delegation in congress is approved, but especially is the official career of Spooner commended as a "recognized leader of the United States senate."

But He Must Come on the Platform. Then referring to his announced determination not to serve a second term, the plank says: "And should he now find it possible to reconsider this decision and express his willingness to stand as a candidate in harmony with the sentiment and in support of the platform principles here adopted by Wisconsin Republicans, and for the election of a legislature favorable to their enactment into law, his decision would meet the general approbation of Republicans everywhere, and we pledge him the enthusiastic support of the party for his re-election to the high position which he has filled with such distinguished ability and with such great honor to the state and nation."

Planks Upon State Affairs. The last Republican state platform is reaffirmed; LaFollette's administration is warmly approved; regret is expressed that the last legislature did not enact laws pledged by the last Republican platform, and the "pernicious activity" of federal officials in politics is condemned, while laws for equal and uniform taxation and for primary elections are declared issues of extreme importance. As the platform was read section by section the various paragraphs brought rounds of applause. Especially so was this the case when the planks relating to Spooner and LaFollette dropped upon the ears of the delegates and visitors. M. J. Walsh, of Shawano, presented as a minority report in lieu of the regular Spooner plank, a resolution endorsing Spooner unconditionally.

OTHER STATE CONVENTIONS

Wyoming Republicans, Texas and North Carolina Democrats.

Rawlins, Wyo., July 17.—The Republican state convention yesterday nominated the following ticket: Governor, DeForest Richards; auditor, Leroy Grant; secretary of state, Fennimore Chatterton; treasurer, H. G. Hay; chief justice of supreme court, C. N. Potter; representative, Frank W. Mondell.

The platform indorses the "progressive and patriotic administration of President Roosevelt," protection to American labor, products and industries; conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business are condemned, and the enactment of legislation to kill the trusts, is urged.

Greensboro, N. C., July 17.—The Democratic state convention yesterday nominated Walter Clark for chief justice of the supreme court. On national affairs the platform says: "We reaffirm our allegiance to the Democratic party and its principles as enunciated in its Kansas City platform."

Tex., July 17.—The state Democratic convention nominated a ticket yesterday headed by S. W. T. Lanahan, of Parker, for governor. The platform indorses the Kansas City declaration and says: "We believe that with Democratic success in 1904 the dangers of imperialism, centralization, trusts, monopolies, mergers and other forces harmful to our people, unjust taxation and kindred evils would no longer confront our country."

Burlington, Vt., July 17.—P. M. Clement, of Rutland, was unanimously nominated for governor by the Local Option League convention. E. W. Agan, of Ludlow, was nominated for lieutenant governor.

Fusionists Nominate Robinson. Columbus, Neb., July 17.—Representative John S. Robinson has been renominated by the fusionist convention of the Third congressional district.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR

Explosion of Powder in a Utah Pit Kills Thirty-Five.

Park City, Utah, July 17.—At 1 a. m. yesterday, while 250 men were at work in the Daly-West and Ontario mines—which are connected—two powder magazines on the 1,200-foot level of the Daly-West exploded, releasing noxious gases in both mines and killing an unknown number of men. So far the names of thirty-five dead are known.

The full list of the dead is as follows: John McLaughlin, John Burgoyne, John Conlin, John Devlin, Harry Devlin, Richard Dillon, John Featherstone, John Gill, William Lane, John Lively, John Mahoney, Joseph Murray, Thomas McKowan, John McAdams, Elias Nelson, William Smith, J. O'Neill, William Wevill, Stephen Barrata, Chris P. Saderup, W. F. Thomas, Charles Nelme and George Garvin.

The disaster was the result of John Burgoyne, a miner, going into one of the magazines of the Daly-West with a lighted candle.

ROB AND ATTEMPTS MURDER

Well-Known Man Under Arrest on a Very Grave Charge.

Clinton, Ia., July 17.—A. H. Hodsdon, a former well-known business man of Lyndon, Ill., is under arrest here charged with attempting to murder Mrs. Charles W. Stottmeyer, a boardinghouse keeper. About six weeks ago Mrs. Stottmeyer was awakened shortly after midnight by a burglar who was rifling her bureau. She attempted to draw a pistol under her pillow, but the burglar stopped her.

Mrs. Stottmeyer remembered no more until the following morning, when she awakened in a stupor. An examination showed a gas jet had been opened and the room was full of gas. It was thought the robber intended to asphyxiate his victim rather than have his identity become known.

While a man of excellent reputation there is strong circumstantial evidence against Hodsdon, who was boarding with Mrs. Stottmeyer at the time of the burglary.

RESULT IS UNCERTAIN

Clouds of Doubt Hang Over the Convention of Bituminous Coal Miners.

MITCHELL COULD DISPEL THE SAME

But He Refuses Either to Talk Outside, or Advise the Men Inside What to Do.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—This morning the national convention of the United Mine Workers assembled in Tomlinson hall to discuss the advisability of calling a strike to aid the anthracite men who have been out in the east for several weeks. The action of the convention is uncertain, although the situation indicates that there will be no walk-out of the soft coal men. There are so many circumstances, however, that may change the situation that speculation regarding the result of the convention is practically worthless. If President Mitchell would declare his personal preferences it would not be difficult to foretell the outcome.

Sphinx Not In It With Mitchell.

At present he controls the situation absolutely, and can swing the delegates either way. He will not say openly what he wishes, however, asserting that it is the province of the delegates to decide regarding the strike and that while he is willing to advise under no circumstance will he assume to dictate to the convention what it shall do. When it comes to discussing the result of the convention, the Sphinx of Egypt is a bowing dervish compared to Mitchell. He said, however, that the convention would take action which would result in the winning of the strike by the anthracite men in the east.

Declines to State What He Means.

He also said that the men on strike were contending for a principle to which the United Mine Workers had long been committed, and that it was the duty of the parent body to aid them by every means in its power. When asked whether these utterances could be construed into meaning that he was in favor of a strike Mitchell was seized with a paroxysm of reticence. If no strike is ordered by the convention it is likely that action will be taken with the object of curtailing the output of soft coal, and every effort will be made to keep it out of the anthracite region.

HOW THE DELEGATES FEEL

Generally Speaking They Seem To Be Against a Strike.

The sentiment among the delegates, as far as it can be determined from those who are already here, is against a strike. John P. Reese, president of the Iowa U. M. W., declares that he is for a strike only as a last resort. J. W. Howe, president of the Tennessee U. M. W., will not declare himself, saying he will use his best judgment; but the members of his delegation say that they are not in favor of a strike, if it can be avoided. Daniel Young, president of the Maryland delegation, takes the same position as Howe, and his followers as do those of the Tennessee man—that they do not wish a strike if they can keep out of it.

The Missouri men are against a strike, and are instructed to fight against it on the floor of the convention. Alexander Patterson, who represents the Colorado miners, says that he does not favor a strike, only as a last resort. Indiana men are against a strike. The delegates from Illinois have instructions against a strike. Those who are uncommitted will not declare what they will do, but many of them say that they are opposed to a strike.

W. F. Williams, president of the Michigan delegation, said that the men from his state have never declared in favor of a strike. The Michigan district signed the call for the convention, and it was generally thought that they would favor a strike; but this, Williams declares, is not the fact. "We signed the call," said he, "because we thought that the men on a strike in the east were entitled to some consideration, and that it was only right that the organization should meet to take steps for their relief."

The delegates from the anthracite regions are strongly in favor of a strike, but they are urging their views with moderation. The men who say that they are against a strike say that the same time that they are willing to strike if they see no other way to aid the anthracite miners. It is not likely that a vote on the question of striking will be taken before Saturday.

CHICAGO STRIKE ENDED

Freight Handlers Go Back to Work and All Is Serene.

Chicago, July 17.—The strike of freight handlers is ended—it has been called off. Before this was done the teamsters had concluded to begin keeping their contract again, under positive orders of their officers, and had begun hauling freight.

The strike was declared off at a meeting of the freight handlers at which Curran declared that the teamsters were the cause of the defeat, because they had not joined. He also said that since the organization of the union advances in wages for freight handlers had been secured aggregating $731,052 per year. The men go back on the scale offered July 1 by the railroads.

Curran, in the course of his address to the men, said: "I am going to organize the freight handlers all over the country, and when we decide to fight again it will not be a struggle between the freight handlers in Chicago and the railroads, but between the railroads and the freight handlers all over the country."

The strike is estimated, cost the business men of Chicago $10,000,000, and in order to guard against such a contingency in the future they are preparing to inaugurate an educational campaign in opposition to the sympathetic strike. The labor unions will be asked to forego the use of this potent weapon. The business interests which Detectors of Crime They Have the Thieves Again in Chicago Postoffice.

Chicago, July 17.—Fifteen thousand stamps, including detectives to have been hidden in the postoffice robbery, have been found. The first clue to the disposition of the stamps secured comes as a sequel to the arrest of three members of a family for alleged forgery, following an attempt to cash a forged check on the Corn Exchange National bank. The stamps were discovered in a bureau drawer at 145 North Clark street by two detective sergeants.

When one of these men was asked by a reporter if he thought the stamps a clue to the looting of the postoffice stamp vault, he replied: "I don't think so; I know it." Those arrested are: George Holmes, alias R. J. James; Mrs. Mary Holmes (nee Roltsch), who says she is the wife of George Holmes; Claude Holmes, a brother of George Holmes, and John Hogan.

ONLY A HAIL AND BLOW

North Dakota Storm Did Much Damage to Property, But Killed Nobody.

Fargo, N. D., July 17.—A section north and south of Grand Forks was visited by a terrific wind and hail storm Tuesday night, causing great damage to telegraph and telephone wires and buildings of all kinds. Large quantities of hail fell. The damage to crops must be great. At Thompson, south of Grand Forks, three churches were demolished, one house broken into splinters, and one passenger station and platform partly carried away. At Winnepeg Junction the wind struck a freight train, the caboose was blown into a ditch, and two trainmen were injured. At Belmont, north of Hillsboro, the wind blew down and destroyed the Lutheran church, which cost $3,000, a big two-story school house and the farm residences of Broke Bros. No fatalities.

Judge Baker decided that the Board of Trade is a voluntary membership body, and that the courts could not compel it to retain a member who had been expelled.

Jackson, Miss., July 17.—Russell Sage has purchased a tract of sixty thousand acres of long-leaf yellow pine land in south Mississippi. Treat Your Kidneys for Rheumatism.
When you are suffering from rheumatism, the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. A. Hopkins, of Polat, Wis., says: "After using carefully dosing three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." For sale by Rowland Bros., druggists.

Cut this out and take it to Rowland Bros. Drug Store and get a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets. The best physic. They also correct disorders of the stomach. Price 25 cents.

Foley's Kidney Cure purifies the blood by straining out impurities and tones up the whole system. Cures kidney and bladder troubles. Sold by Rowland Bros.

The Same Old Story
J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by Rowland Bros., druggists.

A. R. Bass of Morgan, Mo., Ind., had to get up ten or twelve times in the night and had severe backache and pains in the kidneys. Was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by Rowland Bros.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of every family. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by Rowland Bros., druggists.

When Other Medicines Have Failed.
Take Foley's Kidney Cure. It has cured when everything else has failed. Reported. Sold by Rowland Bros.

Two Bottles Cured Him.
"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. B. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." Sold by Rowland Bros.

Acts Immediately
Colds are sometimes more troublesome in summer than in winter, but so hard to keep from acting to them while cooling off after exercise. One Minute Cough Cure cures at once. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Sure cure for cough, cold, croup, throat and lung troubles. Rowland Bros.

Poisoning the System.
It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally various illnesses unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Remedy prevents this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. Rowland Bros.

HIS VOTES AND INTEREST
By Gerald Brennan
Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company

"Duke," remarked Angela Danby, with the frank courage of an heiress to millions, "I am sensible of the honor conveyed in your offer, but before I answer I must ask certain questions."
The duke bowed.
"You know that papa, like most people who have made money suddenly, is an ultra Tory."
"We are Tories ourselves," observed the duke.
"Oh, yes, but faintness in Toryism, according to papa," she retorted, with a deprecatory gesture. "You must do something to convince him that you are as intensely anti-Radical as he is himself. How many votes are you entitled to cast at the coming general election?"
The duke produced a betting book and hastily made a calculation.
"Well," he said, "there is the vote in Daleshire, and in Shropshire, and in Devon on the Rivers Court estate, and in the boroughs of Moreton, Dalehampton and Middleton, and in the London constituencies."

Angela began to look appalled.
"How many in all in England?" she interrupted.
"Thirteen. And then in Scotland—one in Inverness. The Lowland estates give me one in Lanark, Dumfries, the Lothians"—he caught her look of appeal and finished—"seven in all. Then in Ireland—but all these details must tire you. Summing them all up, I have thirty-six votes—no; thirty-seven. I forgot that I have one vote in the island of Orkney."

Miss Danby sank back in her chair with a little sigh. The duke stared in a puzzled manner alternately at her and at his betting book.

Finally she broke the silence.
"Only last night papa was saying that if at the next election any Tory gentleman failed to vote to his utmost capacity he would consider him as a traitor to the cause. Duke, you ask what you can do to win me. Vote for the cause in every one of the constituencies where you possess influence."

The poor duke stood aghast.
"But, Miss Danby," he protested, "have you considered? I have thirty-seven constituencies. Many of the elections happen in these places on the same day. They are often hundreds of miles apart. It is impossible!"

Miss Danby rose from her chair as she said firmly, "I have answered you."

The duke had also risen. He looked her full in the eyes. "Angela," he said, with the awkward dignity which is a characteristic of the St. Giles family, "if I do not vote legally from every one of those constituencies you shall never see me again."

And he took his hat and his departure.

"It is madness, your grace," expostulated Mr. Lastwill of Lastwill & Testament.

"I suppose I can afford to be mad," the duke replied coolly.

"Oh, certainly, your grace. The estates are in a most flourishing condition, and, of course, the prospect of your winning the Danby millions!"

"I don't care twopence for the Danby millions. It is the girl I want." And then, as if ashamed of his show of feeling, he went on hurriedly, "And now tell me what has been done?"
"Well, your grace, I have had the schedules made out, and it is possible—barely possible—for you to cover the ground in time. But it will cost—special trains and all that—it will cost hundreds of pounds."

"I will risk thousands, but," half to himself, "I must win the girl. Be good enough to show me an itinerary for my journey."

A touch of a bell brought the head clerk with a series of especially printed lists. They were the way bills, expenses, list of stopping places, relays of horses and similar tables. All the preparations for the carrying out of the duke's daring experiment had been made.

That evening found the duke speeding northward, and next morning he recorded the first vote of his long series. Then a special whirled him into the west county, where he voted before dinner time at no less than three boroughs. At every stopping point stood a barouche and four waiting to bear him at a gallop to the voting booths. And that was only the first of many days.

Presently the word spread far and wide of the wanderings of the "mad Duke of Daleshire." Many jeered, but old Mr. Danby chuckled delightedly.
"That's a man after my own heart. I have done him an injustice, but I will make amends for it by and by. Perhaps Angela has told him something."

The two weeks of election were drawing to a close, and the crisis of the duke's experiment was at hand. He had voted in thirty-five constituencies. Only two remained, but these elections occurred on the same day, and one was in the north of Scotland and the other in the south of Ireland.

The duke arrived at his seat of Balnaglich castle on the eve of election. Next morning the polls were scarcely opened when his carriage came dashing up. The tenants hardly knew him, so much had the strain of the last two weeks told upon him.

Then the special train whirled him away on the wild race through Scotland and England to distant Liverpool. Never did a special make greater speed. With the way clear the wheels seemed scarcely to touch the rails.

One—ten, and Liverpool! But a grievous disappointment met the duke. The packet boat for Dublin was delayed an hour. He stormed and rebuffed, but to no purpose, and was about to betake himself to his hotel in despair when a telegram was handed him. It was from Dublin and was signed "Angela."

Papa's steam launch Champion in Liverpool at your disposal.

Twenty minutes later saw the duke speeding down the Mersey on the Champion, fastest of its kind.

The day was drawing to a close in Ballyconnell, and with it the election. It was a tiny hamlet, so it was small wonder that there was more interest taken in the beautiful lady who had so mysteriously appeared on the scene in a fine carriage than in the election. As the minutes passed the girl, for she was hardly more than a girl, grew visibly impatient as she looked and listened for some one who did not come. Finally she jumped lightly from the carriage and asked the crowd if they would be willing to listen to a speech in honor of the Tory candidate.

They were in a mood for diversion and not loath to humor so pretty a lady, so they drew around her. Her voice even attracted the gentlemen in charge of the ballot boxes. They did not notice that the hour for closing the polls had passed by.

Five minutes past the hour—ten. The girl was desperate. Could she hold them another moment. All the pretty color had faded from her cheeks, but she talked on.

Suddenly there was the thud of hoofs, a whirl of dust, and another carriage dashed up. Out jumped a very travel worn young man, who hurried into a booth where his factor had all credentials ready and deposited his thirty-seventh and last vote. If the election judges realized that it was past the hour for voting, they were too much taken by surprise to say anything.

And then the duke turned to the girl. She was still trembling, but she made a brave attempt to smile as she said:

"Let me congratulate you on the accomplishment of the impossible." The duke took her hand quite boldly. "Thanks to you, Angela."

And she did not deny him.

According to Cocker.
Edward Cocker, who lived in the reign of Charles II., is chiefly known to the present generation by the saying in common use. "According to Cocker" means in accordance with arithmetical rules.

I saw the other day amid the treasures of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published by T. Passenger at the Three Bibles on London bridge. Only two, or at least three, perfect copies are known to the book collector. One is in the British museum. This particular copy, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription, "Cocker's Arithmetic, Perused and Published by John Hawkins by the Author's Correct Copy." It contains what purports to be a portrait of "ingenious Cocker."

Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much reason to fear that this embellishment was added by some ingenious owner of an earlier century. Cocker died in 1675. This rare relic of the past bears date 1678.—Liverpool Post.

His Hesitation.
During one of his tours through the south Sam Jones, the revivalist, saw a colored man who had been to him for spiritual advice sitting in a disconsolate attitude in his melon patch. Addressing him, the minister said:
"What is the matter today, Isaac?"
"Tze studyin' 'bout somethin', Mr. Jones," was the answer. "I want to be converted and tell the good Lord dat I tze sorry for my sins."
"Why don't you do so, then?"
"But if I do that, the Lord, he say, 'What yo' come here for sayin' dat tze me when you ain't forgib Sam fer stealin' dat watermillin'?"
"Why don't you forgive Sam?" said Mr. Jones.
"Sam ain't repented, an' he's comin' fer mo' tonight if I don't watch out. I forgib him the one he done eat up," said Isaac, "but I can't forgib him what he's gwine ter take, so I'm jest studyin'."

Chinese Surgery.
Like most things in China, the practice of surgery differs considerably from that in vogue in less enlightened western countries. Bone setting in the Celestial empire is a complicated affair and doubtless much more efficacious than European methods. In setting a fractured limb the surgeon does not attempt to bring the bones together, but merely wraps the limb in red clay, inserting some strips of bamboo into the clay. These strips are swathed in bandages, and in the outer bandage the head of a live chicken is placed. Here comes in the superior science of the Celestial. After the bandage has been secured the fowl is beheaded, and its blood is allowed to penetrate the fracture, for it nourishes the fractured limb and is "heap good medicine."

Buddhist Ceremonies.
Some Buddhist ceremonies present a striking analogy to certain Christian rites. Dr. McWhorter says: "The very titles of their intercessions, such as 'goddess of mercy,' 'holy mother,' 'queen of heaven,' with an image of the virgin having a child in her arms holding a crescent, are all such striking coincidences that the Catholic missionaries were greatly stumbled at the resemblances between Chinese worship and their own when they came over to convert the natives to Christianity."—London Standard.

"ONE OPERA CLOAK, $250"
By FRANCES GROFF
Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company

Miss Lillian Fairweather's state of mind was far from pleasant as she sat in one of Schenck & Schenck's stuffy little fitting rooms. Nicholas the Meek, Nicholas the Downtrodden, had turned. The words of his letter stood out vividly before her eyes:

Jacob served seven years for Rachel and then got her sister. I have served five years, see no hope of getting you in seven, and you have no sister. Unless you say yes in a week to the question I have asked you so often, I sail on the Mesaba for Europe. Remember, at a signal from you I shall turn back at the last moment, but my terms are unconditional surrender.

Nicholas had been the subject of gibes, both to his face and behind his back. One that she had chafed she gave current issue among her friends because she fancied it was clever:

"Church on Sunday, theater Monday, flowers Tuesday, candy Wednesday, new book Thursday, dinner Friday, dead sick on Saturday of Nicholas Purdy."

It did not seem so clever to her now, after a week during which there had been no one to carry her prayer book to church, no one to take her to first night performances, no flowers, no candy, no books, no dinners, no Nicholas Purdy, but there had been a weird ried feeling. Much to her own surprise, she found that she missed the man more than his attentions.

This was the day of sailing for the Mesaba. From some feeling—curiosity, of course—she knew the pier from which it started, the car lines leading to it and the time it took to get away. She certainly would not give in to him, especially after the insolent tone of the letter. Yet it was from a fear that she might so far forget herself as to go down to the dock and lose her supremacy over Nicholas forever that had brought her here. Her suit very opportunely needed alteration. Miss Macy, the head fitter, had hurried up with it, promising to send something to throw around her for the few minutes till it was ready.

Then a girl had appeared with a gorgeous pink opera cape. Such a garment was far beyond the slender means of the struggling artist, but for once she forgot to revel in its richness. She was looking anxiously at her watch. Three-quarters of an hour and then the Mesaba would clear her docks.

How fast the minutes flew by! Half an hour now!

She pounded on the door. Miss Macy bustled in. "I'm so sorry, Miss Fairweather. I've been delayed with some customers. You shall have your dress shortly."

"But I must have it at once!"

"Impossible!" And Miss Macy bustled off.

Lillian was now frantic.

She caught the next girl that passed.

"Give me a dress, any kind of a dress!"

A moment later she was tearing a price mark off a sloppy dress of a dirty chocolate color. She rushed into it quite unmindful of the fact that it was two sizes too large, long waisted and bulging at the hips. Throwing the opera cape around her, she stuck on her blue hat and rushed madly from the store.

She halted a passing cab. "Five dollars if you get me to pier 17 before the Mesaba sails!"

It seemed an eternity until she was rushing down the long wooden shed. Pushing aside the man who demanded her ticket, she ran up the gangplank and her feet had scarcely left it when it was withdrawn. No Nicholas was in sight. She approached the steward and asked him where Mr. Purdy's stateroom was. He replied that no such party was booked.

Then Lillian gave a gasp. She ran to the end of the steamer nearest the dock only to find that the vessel had begun to move. She uttered a cry which attracted the attention of a youngish man sitting on the piles at the corner of the pier hanging his heels over the water.

He jumped up and whistled, for he realized the full enormity of the situation. She was going, and he was to be left behind. The ocean would separate them, besides a sea of misunderstandings. His bluff had worked beyond his expectations.

He ran to the steamer's starting place and found a stout commercial looking man in a state of great excitement bargaining with the owner of a small tug to take him to the outgoing steamer. Nicholas joined forces with him. A common object—to catch the steamer—bound them together.

The thing was all arranged in a few minutes. They quickly got alongside and hailed the steamer.

There was already great excitement aboard the Mesaba. A woman in a dirty brown gown, a pink opera cloak and a blue hat was begging hysterically to be taken back to land.

The captain saw peace for him when he perceived the tug. The steamer stopped, and Lillian was transferred to meet her shameless lover and the justly indignant customer. She began to upbraid the former when the commercial man interjected:

"Easy now, easy. What about my two hundred and fifty dollar wrap, not to mention the dress? I see you have damaged the cloak so we can't take it back. Now, how do I know you can pay for it?"

Poor Lillian! Two hundred and fifty dollars on demand! Her cheeks burned as she faltered, "I can't."

"Well, then, I will have you arrested for grand larceny!" cried the irate Mr. Schenck.

But Nicholas now interrupted angrily. "How do you dare, sir, to speak so to my wife?"

"Your wife? She is Miss Fairweather, and we have her name on our books."

"My wife. We were starting for Europe today, but were both detained, as you see."

Despair and rage and thankfulness mingled in poor Lillian's mind. But she acknowledged to herself that Nicholas had taken the only way out of the difficulty and caught at the proffered suggestion.

"Miss Macy took my dress to fix it and kept it until I knew I should miss the steamer." And she burst into tears.

"Now, sir, do you understand and will you accept my check for $250? I will send it tomorrow. You know me, I think, Nicholas Purdy of the firm of Purdy & Bros."

"Yes, sir, I thank you, sir, and I beg the lady's pardon. I did not know she was Mrs. Purdy."

"Well, that's settled. Here are our two cabs. You go in one, my wife and I in the other."

With the look of a loving and obedient wife Lillian staggered into the cab. Once inside, her expression underwent an astonishing change. There were several moments of silence, while the steam gathered fury and broke.

"Seconded! Liar! To harrow my feelings for a week, to get me down like this and then to find it was all a bluff! I might have known you would not have spirit enough to do it!"

"I like you when you're mad. But if I were you, Lil, I wouldn't take on so in that thing. High tragedy and it don't agree. By the way, the cloak's mine. I might strip it from you and expose you to the public gaze in the other enormity."

"Oh, you are too bad! I suppose you think you have bought me with your $250?"

"I wish I could, were it a thousand times that amount. I mean your heart, my dear, and I know money can't buy that."

Silence for a few moments.

"You'll acknowledge, Lillian, the situation was awkward. Didn't I do the only thing I could do?"

"Oh, oh, oh, dear!" sobbing. "It's all been too much."

"That's right, little girl, lean your head against me. That's where it ought to have been long ago, if only I had had the right sort of spunk."

"What do you call the exhibition you are giving me, then?"

"Well, little girl, I don't see what else I can do. When fair words for five years will not win a girl and yet a man finds that she does care for him a little, he is going to get her the way he can. You have shown me that the only way is to take possession, as the savages do."

Ten minutes later the cab drew up in front of the boarding house where Miss Lillian Fairweather occupied a fourth floor back room.

"Goodby, savage." Then to herself as she mounted the stairs: "It is not so bad to be taken possession of. I do like a masterful man!"

Blinding the Officers.

Here is an amusing description of one of Balzac's periods of impecuniosity. Mery, the poet, a great friend of Balzac's, was an inveterate gambler and rarely left the card table before daybreak. His way lay past the Cafe de Paris, and for four consecutive mornings he had met Balzac strolling leisurely up and down dressed in a pantalon a pieds (trousers not terminating below the ankle, but with feet in them, like stockings) and frock coat with velvet facings. The second morning Mery felt surprised at the coincidence, the third he was puzzled, the fourth he could hold out no longer and asked Balzac the reason of these nocturnal perambulations roundabout the same spot.

Balzac put his hand in his pocket and produced an almanac, showing that the sun did not rise before 3:50. "I am being tracked by the officers of the tribunal de commerce and obliged to hide myself during the day, but at this hour I am free and can take a walk, for as long as the sun is not up they cannot arrest me."

Eugene Sue's Vanity.

Notwithstanding the extraordinary literary success which he enjoyed when his works were the vogue, Eugene Sue posed much more as a man of fashion than a man of letters. After his dinner at the Cafe de Paris he would gravely stand on the steps smoking his cigar and listening to the conversation with an air of superiority without attempting to take part in it. His mind was supposed to be far away, devising schemes for the social and moral improvement of his fellow creatures. These philanthropic musings did not prevent him from paying a great deal of attention—too much perhaps—to his personal appearance, for even in those days of beaus, bucks and dandies, of Counts d'Orsay and others, men could not help thinking Eugene Sue over-dressed.

The Artist and His Kaleidoscope.

The kaleidoscope is of wonderful assistance in geometrical drawing, and people who suppose that this little toy is of no use will probably be surprised to learn that the greatest portion of the geometrical designs employed in art and architecture are copied by the artist from the figures produced by the kaleidoscope. The instruments employed are somewhat larger than the toys sold in the shops, and some of them are fastened upon stands in such a way as will enable the draftsman to retain his instrument in the same position for a considerable length of time and thus give him an opportunity to make copies of the figures produced.

RECORD OF THE PAST.

No Stronger Evidence can be had in Dixon.

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in year gone by, is the best guarantee of future results. Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from any kidney ills will find in the following evidence proof that relief and cure is near at hand.

Mrs. L. S. Sindlinger, of 220 West Chamberlain street, Dixon, says:—"In the fall of 1897 when asked to express my opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills sold at Leske Bros. drug store, I told my interviewer that the treatment had cured me of backache which had clung to me so persistently that it became a positive annoyance. I can add to that statement made over four years ago this fact: during the period which has elapsed I have had no occasion to use either Doan's Kidney Pills or any other medicine for my kidneys. I just as cheerfully re-endorse the preparation today as I endorsed it when it first came to my notice."
